

Overtime Markets is a platform built on top of Thales protocol that people can use to participate in Sports Markets in a permissionless way. Thales protocol and Overtime Markets are made up of free, public, open-source or source-available software including a set of smart contracts that are deployed on the Ethereum Blockchain.

Your use of Overtime Markets involves various risks, including, but not limited to, smart contracts risk. Before using the Overtime Markets platform, you should review the relevant documentation to ensure you understand how it works.

OVERTIME MARKETS IS PROVIDED "AS IS", AT YOUR OWN RISK, AND WITHOUT WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND. YOU SHOULD NOT USE OVERTIME MARKETS IF DOING SO IS ILLEGAL OR IMPERMISSIBLE ACCORDING TO ANY APPLICABLE LAWS IN YOUR JURISDICTION. Although individual developers provide most of the code of the Thales protocol and Overtime Markets they do not provide, own, or control the Thales protocol or Overtime Markets, which are run by smart contracts deployed on the Ethereum blockchain. Upgrades and modifications to the platform are managed in a community-driven way by holders of the THALES governance token. No developer or entity involved in creating the Thales protocol or Overtime Markets will be liable for any claims or damages whatsoever associated with your use, inability to use, or your interaction with other users of, the Thales protocol or Overtime Markets, including any direct, indirect, incidental, special, exemplary, punitive or consequential damages, or loss of profits, cryptocurrencies, tokens, or anything else of value.
